

Klove is a beautiful station on the radio. It makes me want to drive my car, to go outside, and it reminds me that there is some good left in this world. If Klove were to be replaced by an LPFM broadcaster, not only would I be put out of any way to find clean music for my children, but many others would be put out of some reason to live. Many people out there need encouragement to get out and do something, to feel wanted or needed. Without Klove, there is really nowhere for these people to turn.

It helps the community, even if they don't know it. How many times have you heard some joe blasting his music into the houses of other people as he passes through the neighborhood? Not the greatest music, huh? Well, without Klove, the odds of hearing only that kind of "music" are quite high. With Klove, you never know; You might have some guy blasting Christian music into his neighborhood, and that would benefit it a whole lot more than any other music.
